DESCRIPTION

Through structured interaction with therapeutic dolls, a person with dementia can experience an increased sense of well-being, experience meaningful interaction with other clients and staff in residential care, and experience relief from the negative effects such as feelings of agitation and anxiety.

AIMS

- Offers an occasion to give care rather than receive it.
Reach the person and establish a connection.
- Provide an opportunity in a structured environment for the giving and receiving of love.
- Give an opportunity for people to engage in an activity which reflects their past roles
