

Accredited Training

Alzheimer's WA is a Registered Training Organisation with decades of experience educating and training health care professionals and front line teams who work with people living with dementia.

We believe dementia is a human experience rather than just a biological condition. Our philosophy of care is rooted in a commitment to a person-centred approach and practice. This is reflected in all of our education and training.

All courses focus on skills development and reflect on practice, enabling participants to transform their practice, enhancing quality of life for people living with dementia.

All participants undertaking one of our nationally recognised courses will require a Unique Student Identifier (USI). Create your USI at usi.gov.au.

Dementia Reimagined: wellbeing and practice

Revitalise your dementia practice with Alzheimer's WA's newest presentation of this unit of competence embedding the Aged Care Quality Standards across a two day training program.

Day one focusses on theory and understanding the impact of dementia, while day two explores what it is like to live with dementia and gives participants the opportunity to translate knowledge into person-centred practice.

This two day course can help your organisation embed the Aged Care Quality Standards by:

- » Exploring dignity and choice for consumers
- » Promoting the value of a partnership with the person living with dementia and their family and friends, to plan for the future
- » Discussing how to develop personal care which is safe and tailored to the individual
- » Promoting wellbeing through a range of lifestyle choices to enrich the persons experiences
- » Exploring what makes an enabling and safe environment for the person living with dementia
- » Encouraging a continuous improvement approach to everyday work
- » Developing understanding and empathy for the person living with dementia
- » Emphasising the organisations responsibility to provide safe and quality care services.

To obtain qualification, students need to:

- » Undertake an assessment of their knowledge
- » Demonstrate skills in their own workplace.

Please note: classroom attendance is compulsory.

Cost: Please enquire for pricing details.

Location:

- » Training Centre, Alzheimer's WA
9 Bedbrook Place
Shenton Park, WA 6008
- » This course can be provided at your workplace if you have a suitable training venue. Minimum numbers will apply.

Alzheimer's WA is a Registered Training Organisation (RTO 4755) with over 35 years' experience in educating and training health care professionals and front line teams in the aged care sector.
